

Thank you Kathryn. I threw away a gem in the shape of a heart that i got from my coworker, God led me to my bedroom, I knew exactly what I wanted to throw away but I wasn't sure if I still have it. I started coughing as I searched and then found the object and threw it away. God bless you and God bless us all ❤️

- k: m recommended the us gov website for preparing for nuclear explosion on her instagram... is that it or part of it
- h: lmao that rly made me laugh for some reason
- k: i knew it would... yr channel btw yr personal and the world its v hard for me to distinguish
- h: its just so hyperbolic & also mundane combo like uh dont forget ur phone charger !
i dont think about it much except to be wrathfully bitter that those dumb fuckers can hold the world hostage and also that america doing so much emoting for ukraine but not palestine yemen or 100 other places we destroyed
- k: it also said, stay 6 feet apart and wear a mask
- h: XD lolll but ya i wish there wasnt so much language barrier i think a lot of ppl in japan figured some things out in the last 10 yrs
- k: it also was like, nuclear explosion can be a stressful event, take care to manage yr stress since u might already have stess from covid 19
- h: im crying omg too funny

Rivalry

The art of escape
Pisces hate conflicts. Their pacifist and tolerant nature pushes them to avoid any conflicts. They're just too nice with everyone to create a hostile atm sphere.

They don't run away from a conflict by changing path or direction. Instead, they prefer using evasive methods or loopholes, to their opponents' frustration. Pisces excel at careers in the arts, including theater, music, and cinema, and are often the best in their fields.

Strong intuition
Even though they rarely use it, Pisces have a very effective weapon during conflicts. During competitions, they can guess their rivals' intentions. They can then plan and act accordingly. Furthermore, their undeniable charm helps to convince people of their abilities.

Why don't they use it? It's simple. To use this gift properly, they need to fee
